Mission Statement

The mission of the Department of Foreign Languages and Comparative Literature is to provide rigorous and diverse courses of study to prepare students both linguistically and culturally to become global citizens.

The study of foreign languages, literatures and cultures provides a foundation for critical thinking and communication; our language programs stimulate the intellectual development of the individual as a whole.

The objective of our language programs is to develop in depth knowledge of a particular culture that will enable our students to function in an international setting, be it in firms in Central Wisconsin, in the U.S. or abroad.

The faculty also prepares future language educators for Wisconsin schools.

The Department of Foreign Language seeks to imbue students with knowledge and an appreciation of the cultures they are studying, in an endeavor to increase their overall cultural sensitivity as part of their global preparation.

Why Study a Foreign Language?

Our world is filled with languages. Our lives are composed of stories. We use language to tell our stories and to understand the stories of others. Just think about how many more books, newspapers and magazines you could read, how many more movies and TV and radio programs you could understand, how many websites you could visit and people and places you could get to know, if you knew another language!

The “global economy,” and the “global village” are phrases we hear daily. More and more businesses work closely with companies in other countries or have branches and subsidiaries abroad. These firms need workers who can not only communicate in different languages but also understand other cultures. If you have mastered a second language and culture, you will have a solid advantage in the marketplace. Those who know another language are called upon to use it throughout their careers. Knowing another language enhances opportunities in many fields such as: art, business, communications government, health care, industry, law enforcement, marketing, medicine, military, music, social services, teaching, and technology just to mention a few.

Language is much more than learning grammar and vocabulary. It is learning how to function in another culture and learning to view the world through the eyes of another culture.

Learn the language of your choice! Which cultures interest or excite you? Get an insider’s view of that culture and a new view of your own. Take advantage of the Study Abroad Immersion programs in France, Germany Mexico and Spain. Live the language and culture you are studying! Expand your personal horizons. Become a real global citizen in the new century!

Foreign Language study can lead to career choices in which languages are used either as:

A primary skill:
- Teaching - elementary, middle or high school (requires teacher certification)
  - college or university (requires post-baccalaureate work)
- Professional translation or interpretation (requires post-baccalaureate work)

Careers in international business

A secondary support skill:
- Business - airlines, travel, banking, government, Peace Corps, Armed Forces, Foreign Service, CIA, National Security Agency, immigration agencies, NGOs,
- Communication - journalism, broadcasting, publishing

Languages are also complementary to many areas of study such as the Arts, Natural Resources, Communication, Music, History, and International Studies.
Double Major in a Foreign Language

If you have been placed at the 300-level in foreign languages, you have the unique opportunity to continue advanced language study and to graduate from UWSP with a “double major” (see advising chart, page 7). Your advanced standing means that you need only one course in foreign language per semester to complete a major in four years. Many students graduate with a double major for career purposes.

Which major do students choose to study along with one in foreign language? Almost any major offered at this University. Students have chosen German/Biology, Spanish/Dietetics, French/Communication. One student completed a triple major in German/Mathematics/Physics. Be certain to discuss your plans with your advisor in both your majors.

Some students may not have enough time in their schedules to accommodate a double major. These students then turn to the minor, which can be completed in a shorter period of time (see advising charts, page 9). Like the double major, a minor in a foreign language can be a very useful support skill for the major area of study and is a skill that is appealing to an increasing number of employers.
Placement, Pre-University Work, Credit by Test-out

Any student who has taken a foreign language in high school or gained proficiency through other means, such as living abroad, may be eligible to receive up to 16 credits toward graduation. To qualify for these credits and to continue your foreign language study at UWSP, you must take a placement exam. Incoming freshmen normally take the placement exam as part of their regional testing program. The Department of Foreign Languages also administers the exam periodically; check with the departmental program assistant (CCC 490) for specific dates. Students with previous exposure to a foreign language are placed into the course appropriate to their level. You must complete the course into which you are placed with a grade of B- or better in order to receive credit for the courses below the level of the one you complete. Thus, depending on your placement and your completed course grade, you may receive 4 credits for each of the following courses: 101, 102, 211 and 212. Retroactive credits are granted only after the course you were placed into is completed with a B- or better and will be entered on your official transcript by the Records & Registration Office during the following semester.

You may also test-out of part or all of the General Degree Requirement for foreign language study. You simply take the UW System placement exam at one of the regional test sites or from the Department of Foreign Languages for French, German or Spanish. To test-out of 101-102, you must place into 211, the next course in the sequence. The results of our placement and advising program have been positive. Students have expressed satisfaction with the program in their course evaluations administered by the department.

Placement for Native Speakers

Native speakers pursuing a major or minor in their native language who have completed a high school or college education in their native language will normally be exempted from 313, 314, and 345, but will take one additional 300-400 level language course outside these to complete the major or minor. Under these circumstances, for example, a major (non-teaching) will consist of 18 credits at the 300-400 level and a minor (non-teaching) of 12 credits at the 300-400 level, excluding 313, 314, and 345. The teaching major will consist of 21 credits at the 300-400 level and Foreign Language Education 333; the teaching minor of 15 credits and Foreign Language Education 333. Students who have completed college preparatory work in literature and culture may apply for course substitutions.

If native speakers have not attained a high school or college education in the native language, they will write a 500 word proctored essay on an assigned topic demonstrating their writing ability and they may be asked to take the placement exam. Based on evaluation of their writing skills and accuracy of grammar structures, they may be exempted from 313, 314, and 345 upon faculty recommendation and may complete the majors described above.
partial exemption from 313, 314, and/or 345 is recommended, the student will complete a 24 credit major (27 credits and Foreign Language Education 333 for teaching majors) including any skills courses recommended by the faculty. If no exemptions are granted, the student will complete the normal major and minor requirements of the department.

Faculty Advising

When you have advanced beyond the 211-212 level, there are many options for planning a major or minor. This planning should be done in consultation with a faculty advisor, so that you can complete your major or minor within four years. Students are urged to consult their teachers and advisors on a regular basis. Faculty members maintain regular office hours for this purpose. Please consult the listing on pages 5 and 6 for office and phone numbers of foreign language faculty.

See a departmental advisor to determine your options as a native speaker pursuing a major or minor in the language.

Facilities in the Department of Foreign Languages

Many Foreign Language classes are conducted in our state-of-the-art teaching classrooms where courses are conducted in the language learned. Each classroom has a modern PC workstation, document cameras, elmos as well as state of the art audio equipment such as region free DVD players.

In addition, there is new state of the art language laboratory with 28 workstations in clusters. Students may access language learning software as well as language learning freeware available on the net. Professors may also reserve the lab for classes to help students hone their speaking and listening skills.

Collaborative Language Program

Arabic, Chinese, Japanese and Russian

Through our participation in the University of Wisconsin System Collaborative Language Program, the department is able to offer basic instruction in Arabic, Chinese, Japanese and Russian. Although a student cannot take a major or minor in these languages, they can take up to a four semester sequence (101,102, 211 & 212). Chinese is taught by our own lecturer and sent to other sites. Arabic, Japanese and Russian are received via distance education. In each Arabic, Japanese and Russian course, a native speaker of that respective language is a facilitator in the classroom at UWSP.

The goals of these beginning courses are to introduce you to the language and culture. They are designed to develop all four language skills: speaking, listening comprehension, reading, and writing and furnish basic information concerning life styles and cultural values.

The 101 and 102 courses will --
- help you acquire oral and written control of basic structural patterns, like asking and answering questions,
- aid you in acquiring an active vocabulary which enables you to communicate in routine situations,
- develop your ability to understand short texts and discuss the information you read, and
- promote your cross-cultural sensitivity and your ability to understand native speakers.

UWSP has language intensive study abroad programs in France, Germany, Mexico and Spain. Most students find study abroad one of their most rewarding experiences. A semester in Caen, Marburg, Oaxaca or Valladolid offers a great opportunity for learning the language and culture directly. These programs offer full academic credit.

- You may apply your financial aid package to studying abroad.
- You may apply for an Irene Anderson scholarship available each fall semester. The Department of Foreign Languages awards up to three scholarships worth approximately $250.00 each to majors or minors planning to study abroad in an established program in French, German, or Spanish.

Majors interested in teaching are strongly urged to make every effort to study abroad, since DPI regulations now require some form of residency abroad or immersion study for teacher certification.

Joseph and Margaret Schmauss Award
Undergraduates who display excellence in the study of German

Foreign Language Clubs
Students of foreign language have organized the French, German and Spanish Clubs that meet regularly and offer a variety of activities. These provide an excellent opportunity to get to know your fellow students and faculty members. The clubs also sponsor language tables, which meet on a weekly/biweekly basis for informal conversation.

Language And Culture House
The Language-Culture House (Baldwin Hall) brings the language you are studying alive with the help of native speakers from abroad and/or upper level foreign language majors, who serve as resident assistants and organize informal cultural and social activities.

Teacher Certification in Foreign Languages
(secondary level)

1. Complete the General Degree Requirements for the B.A. or the B.S. degree.
The following courses required for teacher certification can also be used to fulfill your General Degree Requirements:
   • History 177 and 3 additional credits from History 288, 176, 379(MNS), 292(MNS), 285, 393(MNS)
     Note: If you are pursuing the B.A., the shortest route is to take History 176 and 177 since it completes the 6 credit sequence in history required by the B.A. degree.
   • Political Science 201 (or Political Science 101 and 242)
   • Psychology 110 (a prerequisite for Ed 381)
   • One fine arts course (the courses approved for Humanities Area 1 for the B.A. and B.S. degrees will also fulfill this requirement)
   • One literature course (your foreign language literature courses will fulfill this requirement)
   • One course in biological and one in physical science.

2. After completion of 40 credits, including the French, German or Spanish 313-314 sequence, apply for admission into the teacher certification program in your language. Applications are accepted twice a year, September 22 and February 22.

   Well in advance of the application deadline
   1) arrange through the Undergraduate Advising Office in the School of Education to take required tests such as the Watson-Barker Listening Test and the PPST, and
   2) arrange to have a preliminary oral proficiency interview with a faculty member in your language in the department if you were not given one in the 313-314 sequence.

3. Complete the teaching major in French, German, Spanish or the teaching minor in French, German, Spanish, including FLED 333 (offered spring semester only) and an approved study abroad program.

4. Take the required sequence of courses in the School of Education to complete your certification program. (Refer to the catalog).

5. To be eligible to student teach, you must:
   a) maintain a GPA of 3.0 in all college-level courses in your language including transfer courses and regardless of academic bankruptcy;
   b) maintain an overall GPA of 2.75, as well as a 2.75 education courses and any other subject areas you are certifying;
   c) complete your residency abroad (or an alternative experience approved by the Department), and
   d) pass the Oral Proficiency Interview with an Intermediate High rating and the state required content test in your language (Content Tests in the Professional Education Program Undergraduate Handbook available through the School of Education for more information).
6. Complete student teaching (FLED 398) and the foreign language education seminar (FLED 400) satisfactorily, and submit an acceptable electronic portfolio exemplifying your proficiency related to the ten Wisconsin Teaching Standards.

NOTE: If you completed a language major or minor at another college or university and are seeking teacher certification through UWSP, you will need to pass oral and written proficiency tests in the language in order to be admitted to the Teacher Education Program.

If you are not rated intermediate high in both areas, you will need to complete additional course work and possibly an additional study abroad period in order to attain the intermediate high rating and be eligible to student teach.

Admission to the Foreign Language Education Program

Eligibility

To be eligible for admission you must have

1) completed 40 credits with a minimum overall GPA of 2.75 (incl. transfer credits);
2) completed a minimum of 313 and 314 in your language, or the equivalent;
3) attained a 3.0 GPA in all college level courses in the foreign language;
4) attained an “intermediate mid” rating in the oral proficiency interview in the 313-314 course sequence or through an interview arranged with a faculty member in your language.

Note: Transfer students and those holding an undergraduate degree from UWSP or another accredited institution must also apply for admission to the Foreign Language Education Program and meet the minimum standards listed above.
Procedure for Application:

1) You must apply to the School of Education for admission to the Professional Education Program by either September 22 OR February 22.

Simultaneously, you must apply directly to the Department of Foreign Languages for admission in a separate procedure.

2) Your application to the Department of Foreign Languages will take the form of a Portfolio, to be submitted to the Department office (CCC 490) by one of the following dates: September 22 OR February 22.

Application for Admission to FLED: Portfolio

Your Portfolio must contain the following:
1) A résumé
2) A current print-out of your degree progress report (DPR)
3) A carefully written essay in English in which you explain your reasons for wanting to become a foreign language teacher. Your essay should be no more than two typed double-spaced pages with standard margins and font size.
4) One proctored writing sample of 250 words in your foreign language on a topic to be announced.

Evaluation:

Your strengths as a teaching candidate will be reviewed by a faculty committee. The committee will weigh the following in recommending admission into the program:

• Your overall linguistic proficiency and writing skills
• Your overall GPA and your GPA in your language
• Your essay on becoming a foreign language teacher
• The number of 300 and 400-level courses completed

The completion of your study abroad experience or a period of extended residency in a country where the language is spoken may also be considered by the committee in evaluating your application.

Note: Normally, no more than half the allotted slots in foreign language education will be filled in the fall semester. If you are denied admission, you may re-apply once in a subsequent semester.
ELIGIBILITY TO STUDENT TEACH IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

You must complete the teaching major or minor with an overall GPA of 3.0 in all college-level courses taken in the language you plan to teach (regardless of declaration of academic bankruptcy) and a minimum grade of B in the foreign language methods course (FLED 333).

In addition you must fulfill the following special requirements.

1. Residency Requirement
   You must complete an appropriate period of residency in a country where the language is spoken, or participate in an alternative language immersion experience which must be approved by the department. All teacher candidates in foreign languages should participate in a language based semester study abroad program, such as those offered by UWSP in France, Germany, and Spain, or a junior year abroad. With prior approval of the department, students may substitute alternative experiences such as immersion programs or summer study abroad. It is to your advantage to take the Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) as soon as you return from abroad.

2. Oral and Written Proficiency Requirement
   To be eligible to student teach at the elementary, middle, or secondary level, you must have passed the Oral Proficiency Interview (OPI) at the intermediate high level and have passed the Praxis II content test appropriate for your certification area(s) before your application to student teach will be approved. It is your responsibility to schedule the oral proficiency interview and the content test in the semester before you apply to student teach.

3. Student Teaching
   The chair of the Department of Foreign Languages and the Office of Field Experiences approve student teaching programs. You will register for Foreign Language Education 398 (1-16 credits) and FLED 400 (the student teaching seminar, 1 credit) and will receive an assignment at the grade level(s) for which you are seeking certification.

4. Professional Education Program
   Complete the requirements for the Professional Education Program and submit an acceptable electronic portfolio exemplifying the Wisconsin Teaching Standards
