Employee Spotlight

Meet Chuck Lamers! Chuck has been a member of the Facility Services - Academic Custodial staff for a few weeks. Chuck enjoys model building as a hobby. Chuck describes himself during his high school years as "the class clown" and "a social butterfly".

His favorite superhero is TOO MUCH COFFEE MAN and his favorite films are "The Graduate", and "One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest". Chuck does not listen to the radio much, he prefers an mp3 player or CD's.

Chuck was asked what he would do if he found a lottery ticket that was worth $10 million dollars, to which he replied "I would continue to work but would like to help my kids out". Welcome aboard Chuck, we hope you have a very successful and fulfilling career with Facility Services!

DATELINE: November 19, 1939

The Presidential Library system formally began in 1939, when President Franklin Roosevelt donated his personal and Presidential papers to the Federal Government. At the same time, Roosevelt pledged part of his estate at Hyde Park to the United States, and friends of the President formed a non-profit corporation to raise funds for the construction of the library and museum building.

Roosevelt's decision stemmed from a firm belief that Presidential papers are an important part of the national heritage and should be accessible to the public. He asked the National Archives to take custody of his papers and other historical materials and to administer his library.

Before the advent of the Presidential Library system, Presidents or their heirs often dispersed Presidential papers at the end of the administration. Though many pre-Hoover collections now reside in the Library of Congress, others are split among other libraries, historical societies, and private collections. Sadly, many materials have been lost or deliberately destroyed.

T.E.A.M. & The CUPBOARD FOOD DRIVE

From October 29th through November 8th, T.E.A.M. sponsored a food drive at M&M and Nelson Hall to benefit campus students that utilize "The Cupboard", which was created to help students meet their basic needs so that they can focus on succeeding in school. With the amazing help of all who donated food items, T.E.A.M. was able to deliver a generous amount of food, as well as donate $100.00 cash to The Cupboard on November 9th!

Because of donations from all of Facility Services, many students that may be a bit down on their luck will benefit this season. That is something to be thankful for! Great job T.E.A.M. and thanks to all for caring!
