A SEPTEMBER TO REMEMBER

Yet another September surge assured the Milwaukee Brewers their second consecutive playoff berth, something they had accomplished only once previously, in 1981-82.

Consider that on Sept. 5, after losing a home game, 10-5, to Chicago, the Brewers were five games behind the Cubs for the second wild-card berth, and 7½ games behind Washington for the first spot. The thought at that point was that the Brewers would have to win almost every remaining game to have any chance at October baseball.

And darn if they didn't go out and do it. And for the last two weeks, they've done it without reigning NL most valuable player Christian Yelich, lost with a broken kneecap in a game in Miami. When that happened, pundits lined up to throw shovels of dirt on the Brewers' playoff chances.

The Brewers will travel to Washington DC to take on the Nationals in a do-or-die elimination game at 7:08pm on TBS.

Lyrics About October

Well I'm-a going back down maybe one more time, deep down home, October road

And I might like to see that little friend of mine that I left behind once upon a time

Oh, promised land and me still standing, it's a test of time, it's a real good sign

"October Road" by James Taylor
Songwriter: James Taylor

Ava was the morning, now she's gone
She's reborn like Sarah Vaughan
In the sanctuary she has found
Birds surround her sweet sound
And Ava flies in paradise

"October Song" by Amy Winehouse
Songwriters: Matt Rowe / Stefan Skarbek / Amy Winehouse

October
And the trees are stripped bare
Of all they wear
What do I care?
October
And kingdoms rise
And kingdoms fall
But you go on and on

"October" by U2
Songwriters: Adam Clayton / Paul Hewson / Dave Evans /
Lary Mullen
