Graduate policy permits undergraduate students to enroll in graduate courses under certain conditions. If you are an undergraduate student, you may be permitted to enroll concurrently in undergraduate and graduate courses provided you:

- a) Obtain the written approval of your undergraduate adviser.
- b) Have met the prerequisites for the graduate course.
- c) Obtain the written approval of the chair of the department in which the graduate course is offered.
- d) Understand that unless enrollment is part of a specified undergraduate and graduate program, there is no guarantee that the graduate course will count toward a master's degree.
- e) Understand you will be assessed graduate fees for graduate courses.
- f) Do not exceed a combined undergraduate and graduate credit load of 16 credits.
- g) A maximum of 9 credits of graduate coursework can be applied toward the 120 total credits required for a baccalaureate degree and also toward the 40 required credits at the 300/400 level.

NOTICE TO STUDENT: If you plan to apply for graduate study, you are encouraged to consult with the Graduate Coordinator of your intended program of study before enrolling in graduate courses. All graduate programs limit the number of graduate credits that may be applied to a master's degree to a maximum of 9, when the credits are earned prior to admission to the program.
