

Biology 281: Animal Physiology Syllabus

Fall 2012

Class information posted at Desire2Learn.

Course Overview:

Purpose and Goals: Across taxa, animals face many similar physiological challenges, but have evolved a diversity of approaches in addressing them. In this course, we will explore what some of those challenges are, some alternative physiological solutions to them, and under what conditions certain solutions are most effective. By the end of this course, you should have a deeper understanding of animal physiology in an ecological context, be better able to comprehend and assess primary research papers in physiology, and be better able to communicate science to both academic and public audiences.

Exam 3 = November 20
Exam 4 = December 13
Final Exam = December 18

Absence Policy and Accommodations:

Please arrive to lectures and labs on time and turn your cellphone off.

Everything covered in lecture is fair game on exams. If you miss a lecture, I strongly advise you to make arrangements with another student for notes and to review what was covered. I will post most Powerpoint slides on Desire2Learn prior to class, but they only serve as an aid for taking notes, not a replacement.

Your lowest exam score will be dropped before I calculate your final grade for the course. This has two ramifications:

1) There will be no make-up exams. If something comes up (you get sick, have a family emergency, get abducted by aliens, etc.) and you miss an exam, that will simply become your dropped score. (Exceptions can be made in extraordinary cases: If you think your case qualifies as extraordinary, please let me know in advance and I will try to be accommodating and fair. I will keep any requests confidential.)

2) If you are happy with your grade after the first four Unit Exams, you don't need to take the Final Exam.

Attendance at all laboratories is required. Labs are all participatory in nature and all sections are full; as a result there will be no make-up labs. If something comes up (you get sick, have a family emergency, get abducted by aliens, etc.) and you miss a lab, you forfeit those points. (Again, exceptions can be made in extraordinary cases: If you think your case qualifies as extraordinary, please let me know in advance and I will try to be accommodating and fair. I will keep any requests confidential.)

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, I will make every effort to honor requests for reasonable accommodations made by individuals with disabilities. If you have a disability and require accommodations, please register with the Disability and Assistive Technology Center (6th floor Learning Resource Center in the Library) and let me know as soon as possible. Requests for accommodation can be responded to most effectively if I receive the requests early in the semester. Such requests are confidential.

Course Requirements and Grading:

Point Distribution:

Lab and Participation*	100 points	*The Lab and Participation grade includes lab assignments, a research paper, a pop-science paper, and participation in discussions and labs.
Unit Exam 1	100 points
Unit Exam 2	100 points
Unit Exam 3	100 points
Unit Exam 4	100 points
Final Exam	100 points
Lowest Exam Grade Dropped
Total	500 points

Letter Grades:
