Office: 329 CAC
Office Hours: Monday 1:00-4:00
and by appointment

Course Overview:

Effective use of social media by an organization is more involved than crafting the perfect tweet. This course is a blend of theory and application, where you'll not only learn about best practices, but the strategic rationale behind them.

The readings offer different, yet complementary perspectives that should help prepare you for some of the internal and external considerations that are involved in crafting the social media strategy for an organization. By the end of the semester, you should be familiar with what tends to work well online, as well as the obstacles that can work against an implementation strategy. You will have opportunities to work individually and in groups to hone your professional presentation skills.

You'll be expected to synthesize concepts from lectures and texts to develop a social media strategy as a final project. You should therefore take notes and come prepared to engage in a substantive discussion on the assigned readings each day.

Course Objectives:

When you complete Comm 330, you will be able to:

1. Understand best practices in social media for individuals and organizations;
2. Identify potential internal and external constraints to implementing a social media strategy;
3. Evaluate, critique and discuss the production and circulation of information;
4. Synthesize and apply concepts from lectures and class readings to real-world scenarios;
5. Produce a social media strategy that meets the needs of a local client.

Readings:

All readings are available online via D2L.

Attendance Policy

Attending class is important, if only to get used to the notion of being expected to be at a certain place at a certain time. Sometimes life happens, and you can't make class. For that—and whatever reason, really—I’m giving you two free absences. That does not mean you aren’t responsible for what we cover that day, it only means I won’t take additional points off your grade for being absent.

Please note that class periods in which you are scheduled to present are particularly important: Not showing up and not emailing me in advance on those dates means you will receive a zero for that presentation.

After your two “free” absences, your professionalism score will drop a full letter grade for being absent a third time. Being late to class matters as well. If you’re late three times, it counts as an absence.

My Expectations

* NO PHONES: Take care of personal business before and after class. It’s only 75 minutes, so lose the phone. Don’t have it on your desk. Don’t have it on your lap. I’ve been around the block and know the tricks. Former students will tell you this is my only real pet peeve. I have zero problems with you tapping screens before class, but once we get going, put it away and forget about it.

* Respect your classmates. We will learn from and with one another, so be good to each other.

* Show up on time and ready to go. (See attendance policy).

Late Work

Deadlines matter in the workplace, and there are consequences if you fail to deliver. Work submitted after the deadline has passed will receive a 20 percent deduction. For each subsequent 24-hour period that elapses, an additional 5 percent will be deducted. Finally, any work turned in more than a week late should be accompanied by either a written note or face-to-face discussion.

Feedback

I provide detailed feedback via D2L for each assignment during the semester. This will include suggestions related to grammar as well as content. Reviewing these comments should help recalibrate your output for future assignments, which will boost your grade.

Plagiarism and Academic Misconduct

You are expected to do original work. Recycling work you have previously done is known as self-plagiarism. When you use information or images that you did not create, you need to indicate that.

Section 14.03 of the UWSP code defines academic misconduct as occurring when a student takes any of the following actions:

◇ Seeks to claim credit for the work or efforts of another without authorization or citation;

- ◇ Uses unauthorized materials or fabricated data in any academic exercise;
 - ◇ Forges or falsifies academic documents or records;
 - ◇ Intentionally impedes or damages the academic work of others;
 - ◇ Engages in conduct aimed at making false representation of a student's academic performance;
- or
- ◇ Assists other students in any of these acts.

The potential consequences of academic misconduct include failing the class, being placed on disciplinary probation, being suspended, or being expelled from UWSP.

The stakes are far too high to take risks in this area. Let me know if you need clarification.

Beyond the ethical considerations, part of the fun in this class and in the field is playing with ideas. It is far more rewarding to be inspired and find your own voice than it is to steal someone else's effort and hope you don't get caught. It's a better way to live; as Mark Twain put it, "If you tell the truth, you don't have to remember anything."

Grading

In general, all work will be graded against a publication standard, and will be evaluated for grammar and usage (15%), content (60%), and organization/clarity (25%). Any changes to this basic formula will be made clear in particular assignments.

An "A" is Outstanding. This grade rewards work that is of a professional caliber. The writing is clear, organized and precise, and requires virtually no editing. Any edits are relatively cosmetic and subjective. In short, the work would not require changes prior to being submitted to a client or editor.

A "B" is Good. This grade reflects work that could be raised to professional standards without extensive editing. The work needs minor revisions in terms of reorganizing, rewriting and/or reformatting. A "B" doesn't necessarily have anything wrong, but does have identifiable areas for improvement.

A "C" is Adequate. This work indicates a relatively significant problem in at least one area, such as research, analysis, grammar, strategy, or formatting. It does not measure up to professional quality but might be saved with extensive revisions. This is work that a boss might consider a first draft.

A "D" is Unacceptable. This work is substandard, even for a classroom setting. The research and analysis may be unprofessional, the writing may be unclear, and/or ungrammatical. The work may contain factual errors and/or critical omissions, or may show little concept of basic strategic judgment.

An "F" is Failing. This grade reflects completely unacceptable work, and conveys the impression that the student did not take the assignment seriously.

Additional Resources

The Mary K. Croft Tutoring-Learning Center offers assistance with writing, technology, and study skills. It is located in room 018 of the Learning Resource Center (in the basement of the library), and you can set up an appointment by stopping by or calling 715-346-3568.

Any student who anticipates they may need an accommodation based on the impact of a disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions) should contact me privately to discuss specific needs.

The Disability and Assistive Technology Center offers assistance and documentation for students with disabilities. It is located in room 609 of the Learning Resource Center. You can contact them at 715-346-3365 or via email at datctr@uwsp.edu. Students registered with the DATC may provide their Notice of Accommodation letter (yellow forms) during office hours, via email, or after class.

The UWSP Counseling Center is available to help you deal with the stresses of college life. There are licensed mental health professionals who can help. It is located on the 3rd floor of Delzell Hall at 910 Fremont Street. Contact them at 715-346-3553, or via email at counsel@uwsp.edu.
