Course Description

In this accelerated course, we'll explore human development in a diverse society. Understanding development from the diversity point of view is an invaluable part of being a good teacher. Every human is different from others. Diversity is the foundation of human development. It can help you become a better student, too! As part of our exploration, we'll focus on how to create safe, inclusive classes where everyone can succeed.

This course is a hybrid of pluralism (Educ 205- pluralism for educators) and a Human Growth and Development course (265 - Human Growth and Development: A Life-Span Approach)

Educ 205- Pluralism for Educators is designed to expose you to issues and concepts of pluralism and diversity in education. Activities and assignments in this course are intended to help you broaden and deepen your understanding of issues impacting the lives of school-aged students from a variety of backgrounds and to build self-awareness skills. This course analyzes and evaluates education in the U.S., the policy of equal educational opportunity, and the impact of class, gender, race, and language differences in teaching and learning.

265 - Human Growth and Development is designed to help educators comprehend and apply the fundamental concepts, principles, and current research findings in human growth and development from conception through death. In this course, you'll explore many of the theories of how people learn and grow, and how teachers and schools can positively support students.

Intended Learning Outcomes

By the end of the course, If you apply reasonable effort to this course, you will be able to:

1. Explain the fundamental concepts and principles of biological, cognitive, and social development in developing individuals across the life span in the context of a diverse society, and then apply this understanding to (a) your teaching in general, and (b) creating safe, inclusive classes where everyone can succeed.
2. Understand the influence of social and cultural contexts on human development.

3. Examine the possible influences of diverse backgrounds on students and adapt your teaching appropriately
4. Plan for safe and inclusive classes where everyone can succeed.

The TASC Core Teaching Standards have been adopted by the UWSP School of Education. The standards have been grouped into four general categories (The Learner and Learning, Content, Instructional Practice, and Professional Responsibility) to help users organize thinking about the standards. This course focuses on these InTASC Model Core Teaching Standards:

1. Learner Development
2. Learning Differences
3. Learning Environments
7. Planning for Instruction
9. Professional Learning and Ethical Practice

Required Textbook

There is no textbook for this course. Instead, all the readings are available on Canvas.

Please let me know if you have difficulty getting supplies for this class, and I will discretely help you.

Learning Online

This course is entirely online. While there are many advantages to this approach, there are some significant challenges. Unfortunately, online courses often have a higher drop or failure rate than face-to-face courses. There are some simple steps we can take to ensure you have a successful experience.

Since there is no lecturing or face-to-face activities, it's very important that you complete all the readings carefully. For some readings, I provide study questions or other tools to help you check your understanding.

Since we don't meet as a class, it's very important that you communicate with me as needed. Email is an excellent way to reach me. I'm also happy to make an online appointment to meet in person. Please don't hesitate to contact me, with questions about the course or assignments, questions about the reading or other content, problems in your life, etc. Don't worry about looking foolish or wasting my time. I care about your success. I'd rather clear up your confusion today than deduct points on an assignment tomorrow.

Please read the directions for each assignment carefully. You will submit all assignments to CANVAS. Do not email me any assignments but your questions.

Course Requirements & Grading

Where possible, I include links to original sources. I encourage you to visit these original sources (to view the content in its original context and add to the publishers' web traffic). However, sometimes I also provide copies on Canvas. When I last checked, none of the sources on the web cost money to access. If a source now has a cost, you don't need to pay it; instead, let me know.

After completing the readings for a unit, you'll complete one or more assignments. The Assignments page lists guidelines and due dates, and you should use these dates to pace yourself. It's OK to go faster than the Assignments page.

Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. This includes, but is not limited to, cheating on an exam, plagiarism, and/or giving (or asking for) the questions or answers on a quiz. Breaches of academic dishonesty will result in a failing grade and will be taken up with the university committee charged with prosecuting academic dishonesty. "Turnitin" software will be used for assignments in this course. Turnitin helps students avoid plagiarism and helps instructors give assessment feedback to students.

Here's the policy, for your reference:

UWSP 14.01 Statement of Principles

The board of regents, administrators, faculty, academic staff, and students of the University of Wisconsin system believe that academic honesty and integrity are fundamental to the mission of higher education and of the University of Wisconsin system. The university has a responsibility to promote academic honesty and integrity and to develop procedures to deal effectively with instances of academic dishonesty. Students are responsible for the honest completion and representation of their work, for the appropriate citation of sources, and for the respect of others' academic endeavors.

To read UWSP's definition of academic misconduct, please consult UWSP 14.03. In short, examples of academic misconduct include, but are not limited to:

- Cheating on an examination
- Collaborating with others in work to be presented, contrary to the stated rules of the course
- Submitting a paper or assignment as one's own work when a part or all of the paper or assignment is the work of another
- Submitting a paper or assignment that contains ideas or research of others without appropriately identifying the sources of those ideas
- Stealing examinations or course materials
- Submitting, if contrary to the rules of a course, work previously presented in another course

Students suspected of academic misconduct will be asked to meet with me to discuss the concerns. If academic misconduct is evident, procedures for determining disciplinary sanctions will be followed as outlined in the University System Administrative Code, Chapter 14.

Inclusivity Statement

It is my intent that students from all diverse backgrounds and perspectives be well-served by this course, that students' learning needs be addressed both in and out of class, and that the diversity that the students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength, and benefit. I intend to present materials and activities that are respectful of diversity: gender identity, sexuality, disability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, nationality, religion, and culture. Your suggestions are encouraged and appreciated. Please let me know ways to improve the effectiveness of the course for you personally, or for other students or student groups.

You will be permitted to make up an exam or other academic requirement at another time or by an alternative method, without any prejudicial effect, if:

- There is a scheduling conflict between your sincerely held religious beliefs and taking the exam or meeting the academic requirements; and
- You have notified your instructor within the first three weeks of the beginning of classes (first week of summer or interim courses) of the specific days or dates that you will request relief from an examination or academic requirement.
- Your instructor will accept the sincerity of your religious beliefs at face value and keep your request confidential.
- Your instructor will schedule a make-up exam or requirement before or after the regularly scheduled exam or requirement.

You may file any complaints regarding compliance with this policy in the Equity and Affirmative Action Office

Confidentiality

Equal Access for Students with Disabilities

UW-Stevens Point will modify academic program requirements as necessary to ensure that they do not discriminate against qualified applicants or students with disabilities. The modifications should not affect the substance of educational programs or compromise academic standards; nor should they intrude upon academic freedom. Examinations or other procedures used for evaluating students' academic achievements may be adapted.

The results of such evaluation must demonstrate the student's achievement in the academic activity, rather than describe his/her disability.

If modifications are required due to a disability, please inform the instructor and contact the Disability and Assistive Technology Center to complete an Accommodations Request form. Phone: 346-3365 or Room 609 Albertson Hall.
