FALL 2020

LOG INTO CANVAS

This is a "real time" syllabus that will be regularly updated and reflect our progress throughout the semester. You can easily check it from a mobile device or from any computer.

The syllabus consists of the Reading Schedule and Course Policies. You are responsible for understanding and following the schedule and the course policies, which are in effect from the first day of class. Please read them carefully (more than once and throughout the semester). Please see me if you have any questions about them.

Think of the syllabus as a flexible guide. It will structure our semester, but we will adjust it to fit our needs as the semester progresses. Not all assignments and quizzes are listed at the beginning of the semester; some will be added throughout the semester. It may also be necessary to finish some readings the following class period, in which case I will update the syllabus after each class. Again, be sure to check the syllabus regularly.

You do not need to print the syllabus, but if you decide to, be sure to check the online syllabus regularly for new information, added assignments, or reading schedule changes. The print icon above is for print copies.

We will use this website with Canvas, but always check the syllabus first. We will use Canvas to turn in and return some assignments, take some quizzes/exams, post some discussions, and access videos or handouts. I will use the Gradebook function to post scores but not calculate them, You will need to do this, which only requires simple math. The course website will help you do this.

We will use three texts for the course to help you learn about the writing process as well as writing about sports. These texts are not an unnecessary expense but rather helpful resources we will use in class and you will use outside of class to help you become a more effective writer. You will use the grammar handbook, Rules for Writers, for this course, English 202, and other courses until you graduate. The following acronyms are used on the Reading Schedule.

TSGW=The St. Martin's Guide to Writing

SL=Sports in Literature

RW=Rules for Writers

Readings and assignments should be finished for the day assigned. For example, chapter 1 from TSGW should be read (completed) by September 8, when we will discuss it. Check each class period to see what book(s) you need to bring.

FACE COVERING POLICY

At all UW-Stevens Point campus locations, the wearing of face coverings is mandatory in all buildings, including classrooms, laboratories, studios, and other instructional spaces. Any student with a condition that impacts their use of a face covering should contact the Disability and Assistive Technology Center to discuss accommodations in classes. Please note that unless everyone is wearing a face covering, in-person classes cannot take place. This is university policy and not up to the discretion of individual instructors. Failure to adhere to this requirement could result in formal withdrawal from the course.

COURSE DESCRIPTION AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

The General Education Program Learning Outcomes for Written Communication (Foundation Level) are as follows:

- Compose an articulate, thoughtful, grammatically correct, and logically organized piece of writing with properly documented and supported ideas, evidence, and information suitable to the topic, purpose, genre, and audience
- Apply your understanding of elements that shape successful writing to critique and improve your own and others' writing through effective and useful feedback

This section of Freshman English is a writing-intensive course that will focus on sports, mainly in the U all writing courses, this course is designed to give you experience writing for various purposes, for various in different contexts. More than just a knowledge of "good grammar," effective writing requires a range invention and planning to drafting and revising, activities that you will practice throughout the semester assignments, however, will examine ideas about the meaning of sport in our society and how sport shape our sense of identity. No one can doubt the central role of sport in our society today, and even through makes sense to explore why this is the case through reading, thinking, discussing, and writing. Why are we obsessed with, and attracted to sport? The appeal of sport has to be more than its entertainment value.

most notable sports cliché--life is like a game (or is it a game?)--underscores the significance of sports for us.

Through sports journalism, popular culture, and literary analysis, we will try to gain insights into these questions. You will find your own experience with sport--either as spectators, participants, or both--is a key source of your knowledge and understanding about it. In addition to thinking carefully about sport as a subject for writing, you will

- Understand how writing is a way of sharing information, expressing viewpoints, bringing about social change, and connecting people, all essential for an inclusive democracy
- Analyze the relationship between the writer and his and her audience as well as the contexts that shape the writing about sport as well as other types of writing
- Integrate reading, planning, drafting, peer review, editing, revision, and proofreading into the writing process with an emphasis on grammatical correctness as a means of effective communication
- Express an understanding of the ways in which sport is a microcosm of society.

Rules for Writers at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. Hacker and Sommers. 9th. ed., Bedford/St. Martin's P, 2019.

You will use this handbook for English 202 and throughout your university education.

REQUIREMENTS

During the semester, you will complete weekly and longer-term writing assignments dealing with the topic of sports. Class discussions will be the most informative and helpful if the reading assignments have been carefully thought over and all students participate and share ideas. To prepare for class discussions, it will be helpful to take notes. Note key passages or language that points to central concerns or ideas in the reading assignments. Write out key ideas and concepts along with your thoughts and questions that you have. Throughout the semester you will be required to complete planning assignments and rough drafts. Please be prepared to bring these to class to share with classmates so that we can discuss them and make suggestions for improving them.

During the semester, there will be weekly writing assignments, some quizzes (announced and possibly unannounced), peer review assignments, and three essays. The course grade will be determined mathematically using the percentages below. Please remember that your course grade will be based on the work that you submit, not simply the effort you make or my subjective opinion.

Course Grade	%
Weekly Writing/Quizzes	15%
Peer Review	10%
Essay 1 - Movie Review: The Way Back	25%
Essay 2 - Literary Analysis	30%
Assign 1 - Personal Sports Narrative	10%
Assign 2 - Comic Strip: Girls & Sports 	10%
 Will be determined by point values: A=10; A- =9; B=8.5; C=7.5; D=6.5; F=5-0//5pts: A=5; B- =4; C- =3.5; D- = 3; F=2.5-0

To Policies

All work must be completed on time. It is your responsibility to keep copies of all of your planning work, quizzes. Some assignments may be submitted via email, and email communication will be required throughout the semester.

To Schedule

Late Assignment Policy: Assignments due on a given day must be submitted at the beginning of the class.

assignment that is finished but not printed out and ready to hand in is late. Late assignments will be accepted one day after the original due date (not the next class), but will lose one letter grade or the point equivalent. After that, they will not be accepted. (Assignments due on Friday that are late must be turned in by 5pm.) Assignments due electronically must be received by the day and time specified. Late email assignments will be accepted 24hrs from the original due date. For any special circumstances, please contact me ahead of time. No incompletes will be given in the course.

Essays submitted late will lose 1/3 of a letter grade each day they are late, including weekends (e.g., original grade B. Two days late, C+). For any special circumstances, please contact me ahead of time. It may not be possible to make up some quizzes or assignments.

Peer review: Peer review days are very important because you will receive specific, targeted feedback about your essays and, in turn, provide feedback for a writing partner. This process will help you become a more effective writer. Peer review days are mandatory. If you miss them, you will lose all peer review points. If you do not have all of the required documents, properly prepared, you will lose all points for peer review and your essay grade may be lowered too.

Depending on logistics, we may have to conduct peer review online, but the process will be the same.

For any special circumstances, please contact me ahead of time. It may not be possible to make up some quizzes or assignments.

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance is your responsibility and is essential for success in the course. As stated in the online UWSP Course Catalog (UWSP Course Catalog pgs 25-26), you cannot "cut" classes. There are no excused or unexcused absences. You have personal days to use and manage as needed.

Since this is an in-person class, you need to attend class regularly.

If you miss a total of two weeks of class (six class meetings for classes meeting three times a week; four class meetings for classes meeting twice a week), you may fail the course. However, if you have to quarantine, are sick, or have a legitimate family emergency, then we will adjust your absence limit.

Zooming into class is not a substitute for being in class (in person). If you are not in class, you will be marked absent.

For the few students who are fully online, you need to attend class synchronously--in real time. Watching recordings is not a substitute for real-time participation. The same attendance requirements for in-person students applies to you.

It may be possible to make up missed assignments/quizzes with my approval; therefore, it is your responsibility to contact me to determine work that needs to be completed and to follow up with all logistical requirements. However, it may not be possible to make up some assignments or quizzes.

If you are absent, you do not need to email me to explain your absence. If you would like to find out about missed information or assignments, it is best to stop by during office hours or make an appointment to see me. You can also email me, but I may not be able to respond before our next class meeting. However, you should email about an absence if an assignment is due.

After Thanksgiving Break: For the final two weeks of class, we will switch to fully online class meetings through Zoom at our same class meeting time. You should plan to Zoom in for class. The attendance policy applies for these final two weeks of class.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE

During class meetings, we will discuss and debate issues about writing and literature. It is fine to express passionately and debate others in class, but do so in a civil, constructive manner.

To Policies

Please do not use phones and mobile devices during class, even if you believe you are doing so quietly. It is rude, but also it distracts other students as well as your ability to focus on and follow class instruction. This is an English Department policy that students cannot and should not record class lectures and discussion with from the instructor. Also, please get drinks of water or use the washroom before or after class, not during class, so that our classroom does not become a bus station. Please see me if you need special accommodations.

PLAGIARISM (FROM THE LATIN "TO KIDNAP")/CHEATING

You will be expected to do your own work throughout the course. Intentionally or unintentionally passing off the ideas, words, or sentences of others (e.g., published authors, website authors, other students) as your own is plagiarism, which will result in failing the plagiarized assignment and possibly the course. Please review the University policy regarding plagiarism.

Anyone who is caught cheating during quizzes or exams (e.g., looking at someone else's paper or using a cell phone) will fail the quiz or exam and be reported to the Dean of Students Office. For quizzes and exams taken online, you are on your honor to follow established guidelines: No books, notes, printed or online materials, sharing information with others.
