

SYLLABUS
NURSERY MANGEMENT AND OPERATIONS
FORESTRY 435 – Fall 2022

Instructor: Dr. Richard Hauer Room 323 TNR rhauer@uwsp.edu 346-3642 (office)

Office Hours: Monday 8:00 – 8:50 am and Wednesday 8:00 – 9:50 am. Students are encouraged to schedule an appointment in case I am away due to scheduled or unscheduled conflicts. It is recommended that you seek assistance if needed.

Course Meeting Time and Location: The class meets Wednesday 12:00 – 12:50 pm (lecture) in TNR 320 and Friday 12:00 – 2:50 (lecture/lab) in TNR 320. Throughout the semester we will go outdoors for several labs and some lecture dates, so dress accordingly for the weather.

Attendance: Did you know that students who attend class regularly do better. Pick a schedule that works and try to stick to it. Active participation in class is expected and greatly increases the odds you will master a subject. Absence from an exam or quiz will result in a zero unless you make prior approval or arrangements.

Course Objectives: After completion of this class students will be able to:

- 1) Relate different parts of the green industry and their associated roles in the development, delivery, installation, and care of landscape plants.
- 2) Understand and describe the business component associated with the development of plants for commercial sale.
- 3) Understand and describe different systems used for nursery production of landscape plants and forest seedlings.
- 4) Describe and relate the biological and cultural relationship with culturing landscape plants.
- 5) Develop an understanding of the rules and regulations that nurseries must incorporate into their production systems.

This course is designed to provide students with the principles and practice of nursery management and operations of nursery stock for rural and urban forests. We will cover principles associated with growing plant material including production systems, nursery stock standards, plant propagation, stock storage and delivery, nursery design, cultural requirements and growth strategies, nursery IPM, regulations, and business management.
