Course Description: About 20 years ago, a group of psychologists, educators, and professionals from different disciplines joined together out of a desire to know more about positive human functioning. What has come to be known as positive psychology emphasizes using science in the pursuit of knowledge about optimal human functioning and what makes life worth living. Positive psychologists call for as much focus on strength as on weakness, as much interest in building the best things in life as in repairing the worst, and as much attention to promoting the fulfillment of lives of healthy people as to healing the wounds of the distressed. This course will first present an introduction to the core assumptions and research findings of this growing effort, then move on to explore interventions and applications informed by this perspective in counseling and psychotherapy, as well as in domains personally relevant to the lives of students such as school, work, family and other close relationships. Research to date indicates the promotion of positive psychology has a positive effect on psychological and physical health, academic persistence, relationship success, and athletic and work performance.

Course Objectives:

1. To understand the history, aims, and scope of positive psychology.
2. To introduce and critically examine a growing body of research and writing on happiness, subjective well-being, and character strengths.
3. To investigate, guided by this literature, what kinds of experiences fulfill people, what human characteristics lead to personal effectiveness, and what social conditions appear to elicit these qualities and experiences.
4. To assess and evaluate one's own well-being, strengths, and limitations based on the information covered in class.
5. To be able to apply positive psychology to important domains in one's life and in the lives of others with whom you interact.

Required Texts: Seligman, Martin E. P., (2002). Authentic Happiness: Using the New Positive Psychology to Realize Your Potential for Lasting Fulfillment. New York: Free Press. This Text is Referred to as “AH” on the Course Calendar.

Snyder, C. R., Lopez, S. J., & Pedrotti, J. T. (2015). Positive Psychology: The Science of Human Strengths and the Practice of Living Well. New York, 3rd Edition: Sage. This Text is Referred to as “PP” on the Course Calendar.

Additional Readings: Additional readings are required. Some of the readings are available on-line, while others will be available on reserve in the UWSP library or handed out in class. See course calendar for locations of additional readings.

Course Requirements: Following are the general requirements of the course, although some modifications may occur. Your grade in this course will be determined by your performance in the following areas:

1. Your active participation in class (which includes attendance, keeping up with the readings and self-report measures, and your contribution to discussions and activities) will comprise a major percentage of your grade. It will be essential that you come to class prepared and willing to actively participate, think critically, and support each other. (25 pts total)
2. Activities and Assessments. You are required to complete a number of activities conducted both during class time as well as outside class time. Out-of-class activities should be typed and double-spaced and should be submitted on CANVAS. Some in-class activities may require additional work outside of the class time allotted -- in such cases, the remainder of the activity is to be typed submitted on CANVAS. Finally, several positive psychology self-report measures are required and others are recommended. Required measures should be submitted on CANVAS prior to the class period in which it is due. See course calendar for anticipated activity and assessment collection dates. Late assignments will not be accepted.
(approximately 100 pts total; 3-10 pts per activity/write-up; 3 pts per self-report measure)
3. Positive Psychology In Action Group Project. You will be required to develop a group project to be conducted over the course of the semester in order to spread positive psychology to others outside the classroom. The goal of this assignment is to have fun applying positive psychology while working to generate positive emotions and happiness in the lives of others. The professor will assign groups based on topics of interest and allow some in-class time to develop project ideas. You are expected, however, to spend additional time outside of the class time allotted to complete this project. All projects will need to be approved by the professor before being implemented. A 15 - 20 minute group presentation about the goals, design, and results of the project will be required. Finally, you will each also submit a one – two page typed summary of your contributions to the project and your assessment of your teammates’ contributions. Separate handouts on details of this project will be provided on CANVAS. (100 pts total; 50 pts for the group presentation; 20 pts for the overall quality of the project; 20 pts for the quality of your contribution to the group project as reported in the self and team assessment papers, and 10 pts for your self-assessment/team-assessment paper)

4. Exams. There will be three exams over the course of the semester consisting of multiple choice and short answer/essay questions. You will take one of the three exams with a partner, using a “team testing” format and will have the option of taking one other exam with a partner if you so choose. More information regarding team-testing will be discussed in class. NO MAKE-UP EXAMS WILL BE GIVEN, UNLESS THERE IS A DOCUMENTED DIRE EMERGENCY. HUNTING SEASON, FAMILY VACATIONS, WEDDINGS, AND JOB CONFLICTS DO NOT CONSTITUTE DIRE EMERGENCIES. (150 pts total; 50 pts per exam).

Total points possible = 350

Additional Policies & Procedures

Personal Responsibility

If you are absent, it is your responsibility to get the information you missed from a classmate. All assignments are to be turned in on their due date and exams taken on their scheduled date. Late assignments will not be accepted unless a dire emergency exists. Under such circumstances, please notify me as soon as possible and be prepared to show documentation as appropriate.

Paper Format

All assignments must be turned in typed, double-spaced, using no larger than 12-point font (“Times” or “Times New Roman”). Assignments not typed will automatically be reduced by one letter grade. Margins should be standard size (one inch on all sides). The heading should contain only your name and the assignment title. Grammar, spelling, and punctuation will count towards your paper grades, so be sure to edit carefully. If you need extra assistance with writing,

Academic Misconduct

In the case of academic misconduct, which includes but is not limited to cheating, fabrication and falsification, plagiarism, or facilitating academic misconduct, it is my policy to give a failing grade for the assignment/activity in question. Additionally, the student's overall course grade will be lowered by at least one letter grade based on the particular assignment and infraction.

Course Schedule

The following is offered as a tentative schedule for students. I reserve the right to make changes as needed and will inform students of any changes, additions, or omissions, and provide updated schedules when necessary. NOTE: The timing of activities will vary based on class discussions....assignments should be complete and submitted on CANVAS with a copy (either paper or access through an electronic device) brought to class on the due dates on the calendar, however, if we have not yet gotten to that material, you will be asked to hold onto those assignments until the next class period when we actually get to the relevant material. Directions for most activities are available on CANVAS, however, some will be described and completed in class only, hence, attendance is important.
