Course Description: With global warming and increased population, the demands upon world water resources have passed a critical level. In this course, past and present climatic trends are presented using case studies of diverse global regions. Through these case studies we will explore how the availability of water has shaped culture, agriculture, and diet. In addition, we will examine how past and present stressors on available water have been dealt with in different regions.

Learner Outcomes After attending lectures, participating in online discussions and the assessments, students will be able to do the following:

- Describe how climatic proxies (i.e. tree rings) are used to interpret climate change and evaluate evidence of climatic change and global warming.
- Explain the differences between global warming, greenhouse effect, enhanced greenhouse effect, and greenhouse gases.
- Describe how climate change has affected various global regions differently in the past millennium.
- Relate how water management strategies will either exacerbate or mitigate future climate change.

Quiz Information and Schedule (for details on the extra credit quizzes see the syllabus)

You will need to register to access the Met Ed site. It is free and simple to do. If you have difficulty, then make sure you review the PowerPoint called "getting started" in the content section called "Getting Started"

SCHEDULE

The weeks have companion dates in the canvas calendar. Please check canvas for more details.

Week: Date	Topic (online)
1	Major Topics in Climate Change, Greenhouse effect
2	Greenhouse Gases
3	Proxies, Past Climates and Glaciations/Discussion
4	Anthropogenic Global Warming
5	Exam 1 (Sept 27-Oct 1st)
6	Water Resources and Water allocation
7	Climate Impacts to Fresh and marine water environments/ Discussion
8	Floods and Droughts
9	Spring break
10	Exam 2 (1-5)
11	Kyoto Protocol and other Climate Change Polices
12	IPCC scenarios and management strategies/Discussion
13	Kyoto and Montreal Protocols
14	Climate Solutions and Review
15	Exam 3 (Dec 6-10)
Final Exam:	Cumulative final exam will be available from December 13-16

POLICIES AND OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

I. UWSP Community Bill of Rights and Responsibilities

UWSP values a safe, honest, respectful, and inviting learning environment. In order to ensure that each student has the opportunity to succeed, a set of expectations have been developed for all students and instructors. This set of expectations is known as the Rights and Responsibilities document, and it is intended to help establish a positive living and learning environment at UWSP. For more information go to:

<http://www.uwsp.edu/stuaffairs/Pages/rightsandresponsibilites.aspx>.

The Rights and Responsibilities document also includes the policies regarding academic misconduct, which can be found in Chapter 14. A direct link can be found here:

<http://www.uwsp.edu/stuaffairs/Documents/RightsRespons/SRR-2010/rightsChap14.pdf>.

II. Americans with Disabilities Act

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal law requiring educational institutions to provide reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities. For more information about UWSP's policies, check here:

<http://www.uwsp.edu/stuaffairs/Documents/RightsRespons/ADA/rightsADAPolicyinfo.pdf>.

If you have a disability and require classroom and/or exam accommodations, please register with the Disability Services Office and then contact me at the beginning of the course. I am happy to help in any way I can. For more information, please visit the Disability Services Office, located on the 6th floor of the Learning Resource Center (the Library). You can also find more information here: <http://www4.uwsp.edu/special/disability/>.

III. Participation

Professional behavior is expected toward your classmates and instructor. It is highly unusual that there is a problem of this nature, but I will not tolerate such behavior. Slurs against a person's gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, political affiliation or essentially attacks against a person are not tolerated in this class or on this campus (and in professional settings). This requirement does not restrict your freedom of speech associated with expressing your opinion. Learning how to express opposing opinions without becoming emotive or insulting is an excellent skill to acquire.

If the behavior is identified in the online class environment or via email and it is not corrected, then it may be followed by removal of your extra credit and/or a deduction of 10 percent of your final grade. Extreme measures can result in a discussion with the Dean of Students.

Zoom Participation

Synchronous online session guidelines: I rarely have problems with students. Many of these guidelines should not need to be stated, but I thought I would outline the expectations of our online meetings. Unfortunately, it only takes one student to cause serious disruption to the class.

1. You need to be dressed in attire you would wear to school (for the part of you that is visible).
2. You must use your name (or the name you go by in the class).
3. Either add a "zoom background" or make sure your background is suitable for a work environment (i.e. devoid of provocative pictures). Let's also take a break from politics. I am sure we could all use one.
4. Participation is part of this grade, so your camera needs to be on (if this is a problem, let me know in advance).
5. Do not give out the password or link to other people outside the class.
6. Make sure the background sounds are kept to a minimal and turn on mute when you are not talking.
7. Do not spotlight yourself on the screen unless you are talking. (if you don't know what this means, then don't worry about it.)
8. All of the zoom meetings will be recorded, but the links will not necessarily be shared unless something is pertinent that I think would benefit the entire class.

Failure to follow these guidelines may result in the following:

1. Removal from the zoom room to the waiting room.
2. Removal from synchronous sessions.
3. Reductions in your participation grade.
4. A required meeting with the dean of students.

IV. Grade Calculations

Grade Distribution:

Weekly Quizzes: 4pts each for a total of 40, 40 pts

Discussions: 20 points each, three discussions for a total of 60 pts

Fun Discussion 5 points each, three discussions for a total of 15 points

Three best unit exams out of 4 (including final exam) 300 pts

Total Points=415

Grade	Percent	Grade	Percent
A	94-100%	C	70-74%
A-	90-93%	C-	65-69%
B+	87-89%	D+	62-64%
B	83-86%	D	55-61%
B-	80-82%	F	< 55%
C+	75-79%

V. Exam/Test Policy

Tests are open notes. You may not work with another person. Your lowest test score is dropped (this includes the final). Failure to take a quiz or an exam will be recorded as a zero.

VI. Quizzes

Quizzes are online, are open notes and open book, but you may not work with another person. Do not take a quiz while logged into another person's computer. Do not take quizzes side by side with another classmate. Do not involve yourself in behavior that gives the appearance of cheating.

The best place to take quizzes is on campus because of the fast internet connection. If this is not possible, then choose a location where you will not be disturbed. The quizzes will time out after a while, and this will count as a quiz trial. For example, I do not recommend that you take quizzes at work if you will be called away or disturbed for long periods of time. If you need help finding a suitable location to take your online quiz, then let me know.

VII. Discussions

Discussion are 2 parts. First, you are required to post something. Second, you are required to respond to at least two other posts. Failure to meet the post deadline will result in an automatic deduction of 3-5 pts (why 3 to 5 points? First time is 3, second time is 4, third time is 5). Students who post late, hold up other students from being able to get their responses done. Please contact me if you are having serious difficulties (personal, health, family, etc.). Discussions are further graded on accuracy of content, grammar and spelling, and civility.

Thus far, incivility has never been a problem. Please remember that you do not have to agree with the person, but NO MATTER WHAT you may not insult other classmates. Slurs against a person's gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, political affiliation or essentially attacks against a person are not tolerated in this class or on this campus (and in professional settings). This requirement does not restrict your freedom of speech associated with expressing your opinion. Learning how to express opposing opinions without becoming emotive or insulting is an excellent skill to acquire.
