The primary purpose of student teaching is to offer a carefully mentored experience to develop and enhance the knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary to positively impact student learning and development. This field experience is a cooperative endeavor between the host school faculty, the university and you. Specifically, student teaching experience should connect theory to practice by:

- thinking, talking, and writing critically about teaching and learning in a real-world context;
- understanding school cultures and communities, with a focus on diversity within these settings;
- creating a beginning sense of self as a teacher;
- building professional relationships.

You are encouraged to maintain an open line of communication with your supervisor and cooperating teacher at all times. In addition, it is expected that you be actively engaged in the classroom at all times during your student teaching experience. Co-teaching is the encouraged model for instruction.

During your student teaching, you are expected to maintain a high level of professionalism. You are expected to communicate regularly with your cooperating teacher and your university supervisor. Problems are best handled before rather than later they escalate.

ABSENCES: The School of Education expects that you are absent for no more than three days during the semester due to illness. You are expected to prepare sub plans in the event of your absence and communicate with your cooperating teacher on the procedures for "calling in." Please refer to the student teacher handbook for more details.

THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COURSE ARE AS FOLLOWS. All forms/templates are posted on Canvas.

Summative evaluations	Your cooperating teacher should submit a summative evaluation within 1 week of the end of your student teaching. Please ask your CT for a preliminary evaluation to upload to your portfolio prior to the final seminar class. See student handbook for the evaluation template. Capstone Presentation	Allow for access as soon as possible Be sure to address the prompt found on Canvas	Day before graduation

Detailed expectations, descriptions and examples can be found in the Handbook for Student Teaching

Observations will be scheduled in advance. I will send you a list of possible dates/times for your synchronous observation. The other recorded observations can be done at any time with the goal to have an observation once a month. If you have a change in the scheduled observation, please let me know ASAP. If there is a change on the day of the observation, please send me a text message or email.

Following each observation, please respond within 24-48 hours (via email) to the following questions: Describe a few items that went well and a few that did not. What is one thing that you would like to improve regrading this lesson (or anything else related to your teaching practice) and what steps are you taking to accomplish this?

Please use this framework to design your plans for effective instruction. The embedded shaded guidelines and questions will help you consider aspects to address as you prepare your plan. Be sure to keep in mind the Gradual Release of Responsibility Model as you write your plan. Remember this learning model guides the learner through teacher modeling and demonstration, shared teacher/learner demonstration, learner guided practice, and learner independent practice. Please enlarge cells as needed when writing this plan.

 What is it that learners need to know and be able to do prior to this lesson? What are your learners' strengths, weaknesses, preferences, and interests?
How will you determine what learners know and can do and their preferences and interests in preparation for this lesson?

	Lesson Procedure
Your instructional plan should be written as a series of steps, with introduction, steps in the body of the lesson, and closure. The following five components should be explicitly included in your procedures: 1. Communicate your purpose and revisit the learning target(s) at both the beginning and end of the plan 2. Be sure to activate/build background knowledge
 Be sure to use instructional practices/strategies within your lesson procedure that ensure meaningful engagement of all learners Be sure to present key information and engage learners in multiple ways, e.g., visual, auditory, and kinesthetic Be sure your plan reflects implementation of the Gradual Release of Responsibility Model
As you are writing please keep in mind the following considerations: 6. How is proficiency for learning outcomes/objectives defined? How will you communicate this purpose to the learners? 7. Which routines will be taught or revisited in order for learners to be successful in this lesson? 8. Which culturally responsive research-based/evidence-based instructional practices and strategies will you use? 9. How will you purposefully group learners to facilitate learning? 10. How will you make intra- and/or inter-disciplinary connections? 11. How will a range of assessments be used to monitor and/or measure learner learning and inform instruction? 12. What technology and media will you use to deepen learning? 13. What assistive technologies will individual learners require to access learning? 14. How will you use disciplinary literacy to engage learners in authentic tasks? 15. How will you provide learners with opportunities for learning and application of academic language? 16. How will you provide learners with opportunities for applications of skills, learner directed inquiry, analysis, evaluation, and/or reflection? (Remember Gradual Release of Responsibility) 17. How will you provide learners with opportunities to the next lesson? 18. How will you provide learners with opportunities to be flexible, make choices, take initiative, interact with others, be accountable, and be a leader? Remember the graduate release of responsibility.

Commentary Tea	acher Reflection and Post-Le	esson Analysis
 How were a range of assessments used to monitor and/or measure learner learning and inform instruction? Did all my learners demonstrate evidence that learning occurred? How do I know? Which learners did not meet the expected learning based on the assessment evidence? What interventions will I use? How will this information be integrated? How can I grow professionally to enhance learner learning?
