Course Description

This course covers international law and international organizations. International law concerns the legal rules and principles that regulate sovereign states in the international system, and international organizations are institutions that help regulate various aspects of the international system. We study the primary building blocks of international law and the various roles that international organizations play.

Learning Outcomes

Some of the learning outcomes for this course are listed below. Students will:

- learn about the international legal system;
- learn about the roles and functions of various international organizations;
- read and critically analyze international legal materials; and
- learn about current international topics and issues.

Class Decorum: academic success hinges upon a classroom environment that supports learning. To that end, I ask that all classroom disruptions be kept to a minimum. At the very least, please do not confer with your classmate during lectures, please turn off all cell-phones and other electronic devices, please arrive to class on time, and so forth. If you do arrive to class late, please take your seat with a minimum of disruption; likewise if you have to leave early. If you need to leave early, clear it with me prior to class. If you arrive late, please see me after class is over.

Statement on Academic Integrity: I take very seriously the issue of academic integrity—the idea that academic honesty is a vital part of higher education. For the UWSP policy on academic integrity—what it is, and violations of it—I refer you to the Community Rights and Responsibilities Document given to all UWSP students. Academic misconduct in this course may result in sanctions, which may include (but are not limited to: a 0 on a specific assignment; a failing grade in the course; removal from the course.

Student Privacy: Federal law protects your privacy as a college student, which means your academic records generally cannot be released without your permission. Therefore, I cannot discuss your grades and classroom performance with your roommate, friends, and even parents.

Communication: I will use UWSP e-mail as the main means of communicating with the class. I expect you to monitor your university e-mail account frequently. You must have access to UWSP e-mail and CANVAS in order to take this course.
