Course Description

This course will explore the ways in which language—sharpened, focused, and refined to the quality of art—helps us navigate the vagaries of the human condition. Reading and writing intensively, we hope to uncover the strengths and limitations of poetry. We will critique classic examples of each form, take what we learn, and experiment in our own writing. Students will be expected to complete at least 12 poems. We will share our work in class and open it up to a peer critique. Students must be willing to test their imaginations and improve their work through revision. By semester's end, you'll be expected to turn in a portfolio of revised work. Laziness will not be tolerated: attendance and participation are mandatory.

Required Materials:

- One Notebook for notes and in class writing assignments
- Mary Oliver, A Poetry Handbook.
- Claudia Rankine, Citizen
- Jericho Brown, The Tradition
- Ilya Kaminsky, Deaf Republic
- Instructor will provide other handouts.

Participation

Students will be required to participate in each class. This means asking questions, challenging the texts and encouraging your peers. The participation requirement will not be met if the student sits quietly through discussion and workshop and fails to engage the material. Students are also expected to complete all of the weekly reading. Expect pop quizzes based on the material.

Attendance Policy

This course depends on your attendance and participation. Unexcused absences will not be tolerated. After ONE unexcused absences your final grade may be lowered a half-letter for every absence thereafter. THREE unexcused absences may result in you being unenrolled from the course. Three tardies will count as one absence.

*Do not email me to ask what we covered in a class you missed. Use your student contacts.

If you must miss class for an excusable reason you are obligated to notify me by email before class is scheduled to begin. I define an excused absence as a class missed due to illness, mandatory religious obligations, certain University activities, or unavoidable circumstances.

Respect

You are expected to respect your peers. Personal attacks will not be tolerated. Make sure your critiques are geared toward the materials at hand. Learning how to give polite, constructive criticism will improve your own writing more than you can imagine.

Recording Policy

Students may not make audio, video, or photographic recordings of lectures or other class activities without written permission from the instructor. Anyone violating this policy will be asked to turn off the device being used. Refusal to comply with the policy will result in the student being asked to leave the classroom, and possibly being reported to the Dean of Students.

Workshop

This is a chance to hear what other people have to say about your work. This immediate feedback is invaluable and gives you the opportunity to assess the successes and shortcomings of what you've hoped to achieve. Our first four workshops will be conducted in small groups. Starting Week 6 we will begin all-class workshops. This is subject to change, depending on class preference.

Grading

Grades will be based on the following:

| | | |
|--------------------|---------------------------|-----|
| Participation: | | 50% |
| Major Assignments: | 12 poems | 30% |
| | Portfolio of revised work | 20% |

(The portfolio should include revisions of all 12 poems)

Assignment Format

At the top of each assignment you should type:

Name

Date your poem is to be workshopped

Cell Phones & Other Electronic Devices

Please silence/turn off these items at the beginning of class and leave them stored. If devices become a distraction you will first be warned; continued distractions will not be discussed but may result in significant loss of Participation Points (50% of your final grade).

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is taking credit for work that is not your own. There will be serious consequences if I find that you have stolen other people's work and turned it in as your own. You are also expected to turn in new work. Recycling old work is also considered plagiarism. (See the University's stance on plagiarism below).

Rights and Responsibilities

UWSP values a safe, honest, respectful, and inviting learning environment. In order to ensure that each student has the opportunity to succeed, we have developed a set of expectations for all students and instructors. This set of expectations is known as the Rights and Responsibilities document, and it is intended to help establish a positive living and learning environment at UWSP. Click here for more information:

<http://www.uwsp.edu/stuaffairs/Pages/rightsandresponsibilities.aspx>

Academic integrity is central to the mission of higher education in general and UWSP in particular. Academic dishonesty (cheating, plagiarism, etc.) is taken very seriously. Don't do it! The minimum penalty for a violation of academic integrity is a failure (zero) for the assignment. For more information, see the UWSP "Student Academic Standards and Disciplinary Procedures" section of the Rights and Responsibilities document, Chapter 14, which can be accessed here:

Learning Inclusive Environment

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal law requiring educational institutions to provide reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities. For more information about UWSP's policies, check here:

<http://www.uwsp.edu/stuaffairs/Documents/RightsRespons/ADA/rightsADAPolicyInfo.pdf>

If you have a disability and require classroom and/or exam accommodations, please register with the Disability and Assistive Technology Center and then contact me at the beginning of the course. I am happy to help in any way that I can. For more information, please visit the Disability and Assistive Technology Center, located on the 6th floor of the Learning Resource Center (the Library). You can also find more information here: <http://www4.uwsp.edu/special/disability/>

Concerns

If you have any concerns as the course progresses, I strongly encourage you to meet with me outside of class. Appointments can be made at any time. I will rearrange my schedule to accommodate you as best as I am able.
